Supervisor Matt Heinz issued the following statement about actions the Pima County Board of Supervisors took on evictions at its March 2 meeting:

“Following today’s meeting, it's clearer to me than ever before just how much work we have in front of us in dealing with the “approaching tsunami of evictions” heading our way community’s way when the CDC's eviction moratorium expires at the end of this month.

Today the Board took some commonsense actions to make sure that tenants know and can exercise their rights, and that both tenants and landlords can access the rental assistance they need.

I commend the Eviction and Homelessness Prevention Taskforce for their thorough work and solid recommendations.

Now it’s time for us to implement those recommendations.”
